

USA pull off double at Rome Grand Slam

Bumper Volleyball season begins

Mr. Jizhong Wei, FIVB President

The month of June is the traditional starting period for the international Volleyball season with the premier annual men's event - the FIVB World League – taking centre stage. In its 21st edition it continues to grow in popularity and competitiveness. I'm proud to say, that following the inaugural promotion-relegation series at the end of last year, we welcome two new teams – Germany and Egypt. They, like all the teams, will believe they have the talent and skills to claim the trophy, and this belief is an essential starting point for success. The success of the FIVB World League had similar beginnings. The FIVB had a belief in a successful product which would encapsulate the imagination of Volleyball aficionados around the world. And the same can be said for an athlete. Belief is what launches a career, gives the impetus to go to training regularly. It also corresponds to the FIVB Technical and Development Department which has the belief that all of its activities make a difference. While the successful FIVB World League is taking place, we will never forget the beginnings of the athletes and constantly invest in grass roots Volleyball and Beach Volleyball. The FIVB prides itself on the daily development work it accomplishes because without the stars of tomorrow we would have no World League. There are now 16 teams vying for the title, and the competition is watched by millions of people in hundreds of countries making this a truly global competition. How many of those millions watching today could be next year's leading libero? This is our challenge, and one we relish taking on.

Mr. Jizhong Wei, FIVB President

■ It was an American sweep on May 23 at the US$600,000 Foro Italico Beach Volley Grand Slam as reigning Olympic champions Phil Dalhausser and Todd Rogers joined their compatriots Jen Kessy and April Ross with gold medal victories at the third SWATCH FIVB World Tour event of the 2010 season.

Kessy and Ross beat Germany's Sara Goller and Laura Ludwig 21-19 and 21-17 for the women's title, while top-seeded Dalhausser and Rogers followed with a 23-21 and 21-11 win over Brazil's Alison Cerutti and Emanuel Rego. It was the third meeting between the American and Brazilian men this season with two of the matches for SWATCH FIVB World Tour titles. Dalhausser and Rogers defeated Alison and Emanuel for the Brasilia gold medal in April 21-16 and 21-12 and in May, Alison and Emanuel scored a 21-16, 12-21 and 15-13 bronze medal win in Shanghai, China.

"After playing two very tough matches on Saturday to reach the semi-finals, it was great to only play two sets in each of our wins," the 36-year old Rogers said. "We defeated two very good teams and we played very well in both matches. It is great to have two gold medals to our credit this season after three events." In the bronze medal match, Gavira and Herrera earned their first SWATCH FIVB World Tour medal in 2010 with a 21-17 and 21-17 win over Germany's Julius Brink and Jonas Reckermann, the defending Rome champions. In the women's contest, Kessy and Ross captured their eighth international gold medal in 14 title matches along with sharing the US$43,500 first-place prize in the third of 15 women's events on the 2010 SWATCH FIVB World Tour calendar. "It is great to win a finale in Rome, especially with it being a Grand Slam event," said the 27-year old Ross, who has teamed with Kessy to win their four "major" SWATCH events. "It has been a long week with the matches stretched out over a six-day period. We started the season slowly coming fourth in the opener in Brazil last month and we are playing our best Beach Volleyball now." The gold medal match was the first-time the two countries have competed against each other for a SWATCH FIVB World Tour women's title as the previous nine German finales were against Brazilian (eight times) and Dutch pairs. With seven-straight match wins in Rome, Kessy and Ross are the top-ranked team on the 2010 SWATCH FIVB World Tour.

FIVB World League kicks off international Volleyball season

The opening day of the 21st edition of the FIVB World League will begin on June 4, officially kicking off a mouth-watering season of international Volleyball.

The World League is seen as the premier annual international men's Volleyball tournament and has been since its establishment in 1990. This year 16 sides will battle it out in four pools across 43 cities worldwide for a place in the Final Round of the competition, set to take place in Cordoba, Argentina for the first time.

Argentina has only previously hosted the Final Round once, in Mar del Plata 11 years ago in 1999 and they will have a lot to live up to if they want to replicate last year's final in Belgrade, Serbia where 22,680 supporters saw the home side go down 3-2 to Brazil in an exhilarating final.

"The FIVB World League has always been seen as a good indicator as to how teams perform on a regular basis, and this year's competition is likely to be electric with sides grappling for momentum ahead of the FIVB Men's World Championship later this year," Mr. Theofanis Tsiokris, FIVB 2nd Executive Vice-President and Sports Event Council President said. "This is a tournament all teams want to win and you seldom see less than 110% dedication on the court throughout the competition."

"I have no doubt that this year's edition of the FIVB World League will be another which grabs the attention of all sports fans," FIVB World League Council President Mr. Francesco Franchi added. "You

Brazil will be looking to repeat their FIVB World League victory last year in Belgrade, Serbia when the competition reaches its climax in Cordoba, Argentina will have the chance to witness many of the best men's Volleyball teams and players in the world aiming to reach the ultimate goal – the FIVB World League Final Round."

Winners of the FIVB's Young Writers 4 Young Players announced

The winners of the Young Writers 4 Young Players competition, which will see two budding journalists travel to Singapore to report for the FIVB at the Youth Olympic Games, were announced on May 14.

Seth Rubinroit, 18, from the USA and Cecilia Mussi, 21, from Italy will travel to the Games to follow the Volleyball tournament taking place from August 21-26 and write match reports, previews and features exclusively for the FIVB website.

Youth Olympic Games qualification comes to an end

All six spots at the inaugural Youth Olympic Games have now been filled in both genders as Iran and Japan clinched the final spots following the conclusion of the Asian Boys' and Girls' Youth Championships.

Iran will join South American champions Argentina, African champions DR Congo, NORCECA champions Cuba, FIVB Boys' Youth world champions Serbia and European Championship bronze medalists Russia as France pulled out earlier this year due to athlete quota allowances.

Meanwhile, Japan will join European champions Belgium, African champions Egypt, South American champions Peru, NORCECA champions USA and hosts Singapore.

World Club Champs qualifying under way

Men's and women's clubs from Africa and Europe have now qualified for the FIVB Club World Championships, due to take place in Doha, Qatar from December 14-21.

Italy's Volley Bergamo women's club were the first to qualify on April 4 after overcoming Fenerbahce of Turkey in the CEV Women's Champions League before Trentino of Italy won the chance to defend the title they won last year by beating Russia's Dinamo Moscow in the men's edition of the competition on May 2.

Bergamo will be joined by Kenya Prisons who beat Kenya Pipeline in the Women's African Club Championship on May 17 whilst Al Ahly of Egypt beat compatriots Zamalek to book their place at the tournament on April 30.

Beach Volleyball Handbook gets royal seal of approval

The 2010 FIVB Beach Volleyball Handbook released in line with the beginning of the SWATCH FIVB World Tour has been received well in many quarters.

After a copy was sent to His Serene Highness Prince Albert II of Monaco, the FIVB received a letter of thanks from the monarch.

The Handbook provides organizers with guidelines for things such as marketing, press and media, TV broadcasting and competition regulations as they set about planning their SWATCH FIVB World Tour event. It can be found at <http://www.fivb.org/EN/BeachVolleyball/Competitions/WorldTour/2010/Handbook.asp>

Landmark Volleyball Medical Congress to launch in 2011

The FIVB announced the launch of the FIVB World Congress on Volleyball Medicine on May 12, with the event set to take place from January 13-15 next year in Bled, Slovenia. The landmark Congress will focus primarily on how to avoid and deal with common injuries suffered in Volleyball as well as the ongoing issues with doping in world sport, specifically the FIVB's "We Play it Clean!" anti-doping program.

Keynote speakers include Chairman of the FIVB Medical Commission Roald Bahr from the Oslo Sports Trauma Research Center in Norway, Elizabeth Arendt from the University of Minnesota, Lars Engbresten from the University of Oslo and Oslo Sports Trauma Research Center, and Pavels Mustafins from Riga Stradins University in Latvia and the Latvian Academy of Sports Pedagogy.

"Through its Medical Commission, the FIVB has looked at how injuries and illness can be prevented, how the risk of long-term disability can be reduced by proper diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation, and how to maintain Volleyball as a drug-free sport," FIVB President Mr. Jizhong Wei said. "The FIVB is a signatory to the World Anti-doping Code, and our anti-doping education and testing program ranks second to none. In keeping with our commitment to protect the health of our players, FIVB has taken the initiative to organize the FIVB World Congress on Volleyball Medicine, which will be the perfect platform for physicians, physical therapists, athletic trainers, biomechanists and other scientists to share their views on Volleyball injuries and illnesses. Although it

Injury risk in Volleyball is much lower than many other sports however the Medical Congress is designed to help lower this risk even further is not the first of its kind, this promises to be a landmark congress, covering the entire field of Volleyball medicine with a star line-up of world-renowned experts."

Real Winner launches in French and Spanish

Real Winner, the FIVB's Anti-Doping educational programme for players launched its French and Spanish versions of the website on May 11 hoping to broadcast the organization's "We play it clean" message to many more athletes across the globe.

Real Winner aims to educate athletes, coaches and national federations about illegal substances through a wide range of modules which include the outlines of the FIVB's anti-doping position, health consequences and possible scenarios should a player test positive for a banned substance.

The website also educates athletes about their responsibilities, thus helping players understand the rights they have when it comes to the anti-doping laws, ensuring they have a better understanding on how the FIVB views doping and doping cases.

Venezuela initiates project to attract new talent

Following the end of the Venezuela U13 Boys' and Girls' National Championships, the Venezuela Volleyball Federation (FEVE) held a tournament designed to recruit new Volleyball talent to potentially represent the country in future international events.

Carabobo won the boys' competition, which took place in Porlamar and Margarita Island, followed by Yaracuy and Miranda.

Meanwhile, Miranda picked up the girls' title with Carabobo claiming second and Aragua La Guaira picking up third at their tournament in Vargas State.

According to the FEVE, the competitions' participants will help form the bulk of the national teams that will participate in next year's U14 Girls' and U15 Boys' South American Championships, established at the South American Volleyball Federations' 63rd Congress held last April in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The Venezuela Volleyball Federation hopes their new development initiative will strengthen their youth programme in the coming years
